GENERAL ENUMERATION

Mandate

The November, 1996 General Enumeration was conducted under the authority granted to the Chief Electoral Officer by the Election Act as amended at s.s. 18(1) and s.s. 18(2).

"18(1) The Chief Electoral Officer may, at any time the Chief Electoral Officer considers it advisable, conduct an enumeration of all or some of the electoral divisions, or within an electoral division, as directed by the Chief Electoral Officer.

(2) An enumeration is to be conducted during a period determined by the Chief Electoral Officer and is to be followed by at least one day for revisions as determined by the Chief Electoral Officer."

Changes in the Law

Bill 43, the Election Amendment Act, given Royal Assent on May 24, 1996, amended the Election Act to give discretion with respect to the conduct and timing of enumerations to the Chief Electoral Officer. This amendment also provided for the establishment of a Register of Electors which might use the enumeration process as the foundation for the Register. The enumeration thus provided the basis for the Register and the List of Electors.

Meanwhile, other legislative changes followed which affected the timing of the enumeration. In August, 1996 the Legislative Assembly debated Bill 46, the Electoral Divisions Act, which received Royal Assent on September 3, 1996, changing 45 of the existing 83 electoral division boundaries. These changes were to come into force on the calling of the next election.

Time Constraints

Considering the requirements of the new legislation, the Office of the Chief Electoral Officer faced a challenging calendar of activities, all needing to be achieved within an extremely short period of time. Major tasks which needed to be accomplished within the ensuing sixty days included the production of new electoral subdivision boundary descriptions and maps, development and printing of forms and training materials, the appointment and training of Returning Officers, the selection and training of enumerators, and finally, the conduct of a door to door enumeration.

It is important to note at this time that without the dedication of the Returning Officers who carried out their duties vociferously and within these extremely challenging time frames, I would not be in a position to write this report. I commend each of them for the manner in which they carried out their duties as Returning Officers. Their acceptance of a challenging assignment coupled with their willingness to work in the fast-paced and ever changing environment of electoral management says volumes about their character and dedication to the democratic process.

Systemic Enumeration Problems

For the past twenty years systemic problems with the enumeration process have been identified in all the empirical research on the enumeration process in Canada. The long standing tradition of provincial, municipal and federal levels of governments each conducting door to door enumerations has not only become less successful in compiling a complete, current and accurate list of electors but has also become known for needless duplication and a tremendous waste of scarce resources.

Primarily, enumeration difficulties arise from three principal sources. First, the number of occasional workers available to complete this challenging assignment has decreased significantly. As a result, it is also becoming increasingly difficult for political parties to fulfill their role of providing lists of qualified election personnel to Returning Officers. Similarly, Returning Officers have experienced greater difficulties in recruiting adequate numbers of election personnel within an extremely short time frame.

Second, lifestyle changes have also affected the ability of enumerators to register electors at their place of residence. In many areas, the majority of eligible electors work outside the home and although numerous attempts are made to reach electors at each dwelling, enumerators are often unable to get a response.

In spite of intense, costly advertising campaigns directed at informing the public as to when enumerators will begin their duties, a growing segment of the population simply refuse to participate or even answer their doors. Increased security at apartment buildings and condominiums, in some cases, further restricted access to electors. These issues, among other related concerns, were expressed repeatedly by Returning Officers during the November 1996 enumeration.

Finally, election management in Canada has historically driven the enumeration process in a strong proactive manner to the degree that electors, as a matter of right, have an expectation that their names will be on the List of Electors. Electors become deeply concerned on discovering, often at the polls, their names are not on the Lists.

Although electors may rightfully refuse to be enumerated and choose to register on Polling Day, this choice has the potential for creating problems for both the voter and the election administrator. And, the process is sometimes questioned by the very electors who choose not to respond to enumerators and who did not bother to register by mail even when a registration form was left at their homes. Clearly, the majority of inquiries regarding lineups at the polls, difficulties in locating polling stations, identification requirements for swearing in at the polls, are directly attributable to the number of polling day registrations.

Taking the limited time frame and the above mentioned concerns into consideration, Elections Alberta recognized that the enumeration process would experience short comings. Therefore, the Royal Commission on Electoral Reform's advice was of particular interest. The Commission reported to the Parliament of Canada in November, 1991 that the registration process must rest on a tripod of three distinct but related activities, a tripod in which the supporting limbs were enumeration, revision, and Polling Day registration. This body of research influenced the development of Elections Alberta's Strategic Plan for the establishment of the Register.

Strategic Plan

Establish the Register in Alberta using the following processes and time lines:

1. Enumeration of Electors and Addresses Only in November, 1996.
2. In partnership with Elections Canada, use common polling subdivision maps and polling sites, modify as required by Returning Officers.
3. Proactive Revision of the Register in December, 1996. Add Mail-in Registrations and other data from electoral divisions.
4. Proactive Revision of the Register during the next Alberta General Election. Add address-only elector records and update records with missing elector information.
5. Proactive Polling Day Registration (including Advance, Special, and Mobile Polls).
6. Integrate Revisions from the next Federal General Election into the provincial Register.
7. Centralize data entry in Edmonton using Elections Canada software and hardware.
8. Enter into a cost sharing agreement with Elections Canada.
9. Make amendments to maps and location of polling stations in consultation with all stakeholders after electoral events.

10. Update the Register by reference to provincial and federal databases including Revenue Canada, Immigration Canada, Vital Statistics Registries, and Motor Vehicle Registries when supported by required legislation.
11. Research sharing agreements with Municipalities, School Boards and other elected bodies when supported by Alberta legislation.
12. View the Register as a work in progress incorporating dramatic change and recognize that time is required to perfect that process.

Provincial Returning Officers were asked to review their maps and amend them, if necessary, to most effectively accommodate electors. Because of the limited time frame however, changes were often limited to splitting or combining existing polls. The maps will continue to be refined as we receive recommendations for improvements from electors, candidates, Members of the Legislative Assembly, constituency associations, political parties, and other stakeholders. Necessary changes to the Register and polling station locations shall follow.

But recognition of the following facts is axiomatic and unavoidable. Electors may not always vote at the polling station nearest to their residences if the majority of electors are best served at a more centrally located site. As in the past, in instances where dwellings are located close to polling subdivision boundaries, these electors may have to pass one polling station to access the one designated to accept their votes. Electors may not always vote at the same location. The review process shall continue to balance the interests of the majority of electors in their respective subdivisions.

Privacy

The Privacy Commissioner for Alberta and his staff were involved in discussions with respect to the amendments to the Election Act proposed in March, 1996 in the context of privacy legislation. These discussions included the issue of collecting telephone numbers. It was pointed out that during the 1996 federal by-elections, telephone numbers were collected, but they did not appear on the List of Electors. The purpose of collecting telephone numbers was to assist with the compilation of the List, and in this sense, the use of telephone numbers was strictly for election administration purposes.

The Privacy Commissioner indicated that he had discussions with the Privacy Commissioners for both British Columbia and Saskatchewan concerning the collection of telephone numbers for the List of Electors. He noted that British Columbia collects telephone numbers for the permanent registry but does not include them on the List of Electors. Considerable discussion revolved around the issue of changing the legislation to include telephone numbers on the List of Electors. The Commissioner indicated that he would express his views regarding the addition of telephone numbers to the List of Electors, directly to the Standing Committee on Legislative Offices.

The next discussion with the Privacy Commissioner occurred after the legislation had been passed which approved the collection of telephone numbers and the appearance of telephone numbers on the List of Electors. Elections Alberta agreed that a satisfactory protocol which incorporated informed consent would be developed for use by enumerators when collecting data during their residential visitations. No discussions occurred touching on the collection of personal data by enumerators from only one individual at each residence with respect to others living in that residence. It was further agreed at this meeting that the Enumeration Record form and the Mail-in Registration form as well as other printed documentation connected with the enumeration process would be designed to highlight the informed consent protocol developed.

Subsequently, in late summer and early fall, the training materials prepared for the pending enumeration as well as the forms to be used were discussed with the Privacy Commissioner and his staff. Further, an agreement was put in place to include a letter from the Privacy Commissioner to enumerators. This letter was to be included in the enumeration manual given to each enumerator. The enumeration forms reviewed for informed consent content included:

1. Enumerator's Manual;
2. Mail-in Registration forms;
3. Enumeration Record forms.

The Enumerator's Manual set out the full text of the letter from the Privacy Commissioner. The Privacy Commissioner encouraged enumerators as follows:

"... when dealing with the public to ensure that everyone is aware that this information, while useful, is not required to be given. There are certain circumstances where individuals will not want this information to be public and they should be aware of their rights."

In the same manual, the Chief Electoral Officer discusses the privacy issue:

"Privacy is a concern for many people, and you, as an enumerator, should be prepared to reassure electors that the information gathered is for electoral purposes only. Any other use of this information has a high penalty attached to it. There are strict legal measures in place to safeguard personal information and keep it confidential. (Details are printed on the cover of each Enumeration Record book.)"

Elections Alberta made concessions which were not legally necessary with respect to the enumeration process to assure, insofar as possible, that the information was provided with informed consent by electors. It is important to note that this requirement was a matter of policy and not of law. The Chief Electoral Officer is not compelled in the enumeration process to collect personal data in this manner by either the Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act or the Election Act.

The manual went on to specifically instruct enumerators about the procedures they must follow during their first visit and their second visit. Furthermore, the Mail-in Registration form is discussed. With respect to telephone numbers, the manual clearly states:

"D.1.3 Telephone Number

Ask if the telephone number is listed in the telephone directory. If published, ask permission to record number. Advise elector that the telephone number will appear on the List of Electors. Do not ask for unpublished numbers.

Note: Although it is not compulsory for the elector to give you their telephone number, it is extremely useful for maintaining the Register of Electors."

With respect to dates of birth, the manual instructed enumerators as follows:

"D.1.5 Gender and Birth Date

Inform the person that the next two items, gender and date of birth, may only be used to verify the identification of an elector when creating or revising the Register. This information will not appear on the List. It is always private and confidential.

Record the gender and date of birth of each elector at the residence. If the person is unsure of any information, make arrangements to come back later.

Note: Although it is not compulsory for the elector to give you their gender and birth date, it is extremely useful for maintaining the Register of Electors."

Clearly the manual of instruction given to enumerators required the solicitation of personal information in the context of informed consent. The consent that was received, however was, as in all previous enumerations, the consent of the responsible person providing the data to the enumerator. The information was not specifically collected from every single individual elector at each residence. Usually, the information was supplied by one elector at each residence. As a result, it is probable that two-thirds of the electors in Alberta did not give the personal information required by enumerators directly.

As it turned out, this proved to be a serious flaw. The seriousness of this difficulty was not recognized initially and needs examination. Three unexpected problems arose. First, enumerators were overwhelmed by the canvassing duty of explaining informed consent at residence doors. As a result, some did not ask for dates of birth or telephone numbers or on the contrary did ask but did not explain the information was not required to be given from the point of view of privacy but was necessary administratively for the integrity of the Register.

Second, when the person giving the information, which included telephone and date of birth information, told other members of the same household they had done this, some of the others did not agree to the earlier provision of the information. The result was a deluge of telephone calls to Elections Alberta or to Returning Officers from electors who asked for the deletion of dates of birth and telephone numbers and even the entire Enumeration Record. Subsequently, significant administrative procedures with ancillary funding requirements were needed as these deletions were primarily requested by telephone calls and, further, they required verification and data entry quality control actions not earlier anticipated.

Third, informed consent was not obtained as most Albertans did not have direct contact with enumerators. Even Mail-in Registrations were completed by one person. Thus the goal and intent of the Privacy Commissioner was not realized, and the integrity, efficiency, and economy of the registration process was negatively affected. These results also became fodder for the media, some of whom championed the privacy aspect of the process without due concern for the democratic attributes.

The Enumeration Record book contained instructions given in precise detail. On the front cover, a caution with respect to the personal information clearly warns that misuse of the information may result in fines of up to $100,000 and/or to imprisonment for terms of up to one year. The flyleaf of the cover page that is inserted between the carbonized records contains the following statement:

"I would like to ask you a few questions to determine elector eligibility. Any information you give me is voluntary.

In order to reduce costs and eliminate duplication this Register of Electors may be used for future electoral events in Alberta.

This information is confidential. Only your name, address and if you agree telephone number, will appear on the List of Electors.

Date of birth and gender may only be used to verify the identification of an elector when creating or revising the Register."

The title on this cardboard fold-in is Elector Registration Process, and immediately underneath appears the following note:

"This confidential information is given voluntarily and will be used for electoral purposes only."

On the back page of the Enumeration Record book, there is an Enumerator's Security List. On the right-hand side, the first "do not" caution is:

"Do not request or record unlisted telephone numbers."

On the Enumeration Record itself, above the signature of the person providing the information, is the statement:

"To my knowledge, the information provided above is true, accurate and given voluntarily."

The telephone number area on the form is shaded in gray, as are the gender and date of birth sections. The reminder "Shaded areas contain voluntary information" appears next to the gray sections on the form. The form is a triplicate form, and one copy was left at each residence for the elector's records and appropriate use.

The Mail-in Registration form contained the same shaded areas and warnings as the Enumeration Record. The shaded area is purple, and the voluntary and confidential caution is set out as follows:

"This information is given voluntarily and is confidential:

- x Adding your name to the Register of Electors is a voluntary act.
- x This information is confidential. Only your name, address, and (if you agree) telephone number, will appear on the List of Electors.
- x Date of birth and gender may only be used to verify the identification of an elector when creating or revising the Register."*

In conclusion and in summary, the Privacy Commissioner for Alberta and his staff were involved in the review of the legislation which amended the Election Act and put in place the Register and the new methodology for enumeration as well as for the List of Electors prior to the legislation being introduced in the Legislative Assembly of Alberta. Further, the legislation having received Royal Assent was not implemented without consultations with the Commissioner. Indeed, the policy, procedures, practices, training materials, and forms were prepared and compiled following, whenever possible, the concept that electors or persons giving the required information at enumeration must be given the opportunity to give that information with informed consent. The Privacy Commissioner was given the opportunity to include an unaltered letter; that is to say, it was not revised by Elections Alberta, who made no comment with respect to this letter which appeared in every Enumerator's Manual. Finally, the Privacy Commissioner vetted the Enumeration Record forms and the Mail-in Registration forms used in the enumeration process.

The policy developed by Elections Alberta is not mandated by the Election Act. These procedures were adopted in a spirit of cooperation with the intent of preserving, insofar as possible, the spirit of the Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act in connection with the collection and the gathering of personal information from Albertans. However there were serious negative consequences.

Digressing for a moment, it is most interesting to note that Elections Canada during their April, 1997 enumerations in all provinces except Alberta and Prince Edward Island, which shared their provincial Lists with Elections Canada, did not seek informed consent. On the contrary, the required information was requested without comment on privacy issues. People might refuse to give the information requested if they so decided. Electors have the opportunity of opting out of the Register by writing the Chief Electoral Officer of Canada and requesting deletion of their information after the fact of enumeration. The federal enumeration occurred without a great hue and cry from the federal Privacy Commissioner or negative reactions from electors. Indeed 97% of electors gave the requested information. This successful federal experience shall most probably guide Elections Alberta in future Register endeavours.

Returning Officers

The philosophy of Elections Alberta is that enumerations and elections are conducted by Returning Officers in their electoral divisions. Elections Alberta cannot run elections from Edmonton and therefore relies on these key persons in each constituency, for without the focused attention and dedication of Returning Officers, electoral events would be impossible to administer. The process is decentralized, and the successful conduct of electoral events is always in the hands of the Returning Officer. The role of Elections Alberta is the development of policy and the administration of electoral law. Elections Alberta is to provide guidance and supervision: to enforce fairness and impartiality; to issue information and guidance; and to train and equip Returning Officers to enable them to complete their work successfully.

The returning officers listed on page 15 of this Report were appointed for the November General Enumeration as follows:

1. Order in Council 449/96 dated September 25, 1996, appointed 50 Returning Officers;
2. Order in Council 474/96 dated October 2, 1996, appointed 12 Returning Officers; and
3. Order in Council 487/96 dated October 23, 1996, appointed 22 Returning Officers.

This detail is given here to more fully illustrate the time constraints imposed on the process. One of the Returning Officers declined appointment. Thus 84 appointees are named in the Orders in Council (OCs). While Executive Council was dealing with the appointment process, training of Returning Officers had actually begun.

Returning Officers had 21 days or less to finalize their maps (some did not receive maps until the end of October and even early November) and to select and train enumerators with a view to having them start visitations as early in November as possible. The Returning Officer Enumeration Schedule was as follows:

Enumeration Schedule

"A. Elections Alberta shall:

- 1. Finish training of all Returning Officers by October 16, 1996.*
- 2. Equip all Returning Officers by October 16, 1996.*

B. Returning Officers shall:

- 1. Hire all required enumerators by October 23, 1996.*
- 2. Train all enumerators by October 31, 1996.*

Note: Try to train and equip enumerators between October 23 and 31. The earlier the better."

Enumeration Training

Returning Officers' training sessions were conducted in Edmonton and Calgary between October 8 and 16, 1996. The extensive and detailed two-day training agenda is given below. There were four regular training days, but several Returning Officers received one-on-one attention because of their late appointment or inability to attend the scheduled sessions.

Day 1

1. Elections Alberta's Mandate and Philosophy.
2. Overview of the Office of the Chief Electoral Officer.
3. Legislative Changes.
4. Mapping Overview.
5. Map Description Workshop.
6. Conclusion of Mapping.
7. Enumeration Information Centre.
8. Enumeration Timeline.

Day 2

1. Register of Electors.
2. Overview of the Enumeration Process.
3. Review of the Enumeration Manual.
4. Hiring and Training Enumerators.
5. Mail-in Registration.
6. Data Entry Process.
7. Revision Process.

The forms prepared by Elections Alberta for the enumeration included an Enumerator's Manual, a flipchart for training enumerators, a manual for Returning Officers on the conduct of the enumeration, as well as Enumeration Record forms, Call Back cards, and Mail-in Registration applications. The entire paper chase was addressed in detail. Data entry records related to the development of the Register of Electors were also reviewed.

The process received detailed attention as did the mapping requirements and the locations of polling stations. That the subdivisions and locations must serve the convenience of the electors was stressed particularly, and the Returning Officers were asked to amend the maps and locations as they thought necessary in the interests of the elector. The mapping issue is discussed in detail below.

Mapping

Preparation of the maps for the new electoral divisions, of necessity, followed the enactment of the Electoral Divisions Act in September, 1996. This extensive work could not have been earlier begun because the decision of the Legislature with respect to electoral boundary configurations had not been made and the fate of any proposed future electoral division boundary was uncertain.

The electoral subdivision maps were prepared by Elections Canada during the months of September, October, and early November, 1996. Elections Alberta and Elections Canada had agreed to use the same subdivision boundaries, both provincially and federally, in the interests of efficiency, economy, and the convenience of the electorate. This work was cost shared with Elections Canada and required the focused attention of their entire Cartography Division at Elections Canada, which resulted in 1,150 working hours (approximately 160 working days) to complete.

These maps were produced manually and did not provide detail. Rather only the outline of the subdivision boundaries appeared on these maps. In the time available, nothing more was possible. Returning Officers had to refer to local maps for precision and details. Moreover, the centralized map production often did not respect local situations, and Returning Officers needed to make necessary adjustments as required during the enumeration. It was not possible to implement another strategic plan for mapping within the time constraints imposed by the recent legislation and the timetables needed for the pending General Election expected early in 1997.

On October 1, 1996, Elections Alberta hired a mapping professional to review all subdivision maps in consultation with Returning Officers. An additional experienced former Returning Officer was added to assist with this effort on November 27, 1996. On February 3, 1997, another professional mapper came on strength to complete the detailed maps. This process was ongoing throughout the enumeration period and directly involved Returning Officers in the review of the maps. In total, headquarters mapping staff devoted 1,303.5 hours (or 180 work days) to the mapping review. The end product was an excellent set of maps. Review of the maps is, of course, ongoing as there is always room to improve and refine electoral maps.

Enumerators

Enumerators began their work in November, 1996 using the electoral divisions set out in the new Electoral Divisions Act. November, it was recognized, was not an ideal month for door knocking in Alberta as it is usually the beginning of winter and days are shorter, but the only alternative available was March, 1997, which would not accommodate an early election in 1997. For the first time, only one enumerator was appointed for each subdivision, unless personal security and safety were an issue. There were no negative results reported, and a cost savings of $1 million resulted.

Secondly, enumerators had significantly more time for visitations. The timeline was flexible permitting Returning Officers to prepare their maps and train enumerators to begin their canvass preferably on November 1 and end it on November 16. When necessary, Returning Officers began later in November. Delays were caused by mapping and staffing difficulties. In these circumstances, extensions to the enumeration period were granted in a number of electoral divisions. The enumeration concluded in all areas by mid-December, 1996. A full month, and in some cases even more time, was available to enumerators for the purpose, as opposed to the former timelines for enumerating which were September 15 - 30 in 1988 (16 days) and April 26 to May 1 in 1993 (6 days). The schedule and general directions were as follows:

Enumeration Schedule

- "1. Begin November 1, 1996 and end November 16, 1996. Revision Day is November 30, 1996.
2. No enumeration on Sundays unless necessary to complete the enumeration.
3. Timeframe gives three Saturdays to enumerators for door knocking.

Only if maps required or other factors prevent beginning on November 1, 1996, the backup timeframe is as follows:

- (a) November 8, 1996 to November 23, 1996, with Revision on December 7, 1996.*
- (b) November 15, 1996 to November 30, 1996 with Revision on December 14, 1996.*

Again there are three (3) Saturdays. No Enumeration on Sundays."

Finally, enumerators were no longer required to produce a List of Electors but to simply submit the records from visitations to the Returning Officers for vetting and approval. All data entry was completed at a central location in Edmonton following the enumeration. On the other hand, the information requested by enumerators included full names, dates of birth, genders, and publicly listed telephone numbers gathered voluntarily and with informed consent. Call Back cards were left on the first visit, and on the second visit Mail-in Registration forms were left at each residence. Addresses were collected when there was no response at the door after a second visit.

Register

The 1996 General Enumeration was the foundation for The Register of Electors. This was a new initiative which used the 1996 enumeration as the starting point. The names and personal data of 1,648,473 eligible electors were collected during the enumeration of the province by the 5,027 enumerators hired to conduct what is hoped shall have been Alberta's last door-to-door enumeration. In January, 1997 this information was then entered into the Register of Electors from which was extracted the List of Electors used for the 1997 Provincial General Election.

Elector information in the Register will be continually updated so that Lists of Electors may be prepared for future electoral events. This will save taxpayers' money by eliminating the need for future door-to-door enumerations. This involves a joint venture with Elections Canada, which is forecast to save Alberta $8 to $15 million over the next decade and a half in provincial general elections and Elections Canada $130 million in the next six federal general elections. Additional savings will also be realized if the Register is shared with municipalities and school boards or other legitimate bodies for electoral purposes. Elections Canada, our federal counterpart, used the Alberta List to prepare the federal List of Electors for the June 2 federal election. This eliminated duplication of effort and expenses. The fiscal benefits have already begun to accrue as Elections Canada contributed approximately $1.5 million to the overall costs of the Alberta 1996 General Enumeration.

Telephone Information Centre

The Centre was established at the Office of the Chief Electoral Officer to assist electors during the enumeration period. Information Centre staff were available throughout the enumeration and answered 1,753 calls from electors, the media, political parties, and others about the process, privacy, forms, and complaints from October 28 to December 13, 1996. To enhance client service, Information Centre staff were available after regular hours and on weekends. Excellent cooperation was received from the media in publicizing this toll-free service to electors.

Mail-in Registrations

Mail-in Registration applications were developed by the Office of the Chief Electoral Officer and distributed by enumerators who were unable to contact electors in person after two or more visits to a residence. These forms, which collected all required enumeration data, were then used to add electors' names to the Register and List of Electors who would otherwise have been missed. By December 31, 1996, some 55,445 Mail-in Registration forms had been received, which each contained three electors on average. These were routed to Returning Officers for addition to the data collected during the Revision Period and, subsequently, to the Data Entry Centre in Edmonton after Returning Officers had submitted their enumeration documents.

Advertising

The public information campaign for the enumeration commenced with the October 31, 1996, news conference held by the Chief Electoral Officer to provide information relating to the enumeration process and the Register concept. Advertisements appeared in 10 daily and 123 weekly newspapers throughout Alberta in late October, 1996 encouraging electors to participate in the creation of the Register. The advertisements provided answers to some of the most frequently asked questions and provided toll-free telephone numbers for electors with more specific concerns. Electors who were missed during the enumeration period were added to the List of Electors during the Revision Period, which was also advertised in 133 daily and weekly newspapers throughout Alberta. The primary advertisement was the two page spread that follows.

Publicity

The Chief Electoral Officer participated in many television and radio programmes discussing the enumeration and Register. News items were regular occurrences during the enumeration. Discussions with newspaper journalists were frequently reported, and all media calls were returned by the Chief Electoral Officer. Most of the media coverage was very positive. CHASE News Monitoring, Research, and Analysis Publicity Services tracked the media coverage for Elections Alberta, and their reports generally indicated that the coverage was positive. However, there were negative comments, often from unexpected sources, which probably discouraged participation in the process. Some examples follow the enumeration advertisement.

November is Enumeration Month... ...and Elections Alberta is building a Register of Electors.

- Enumerators will visit every residence in Alberta to gather information needed for the Register.
- Albertans not at home when visited may register by mail or fax; registration forms shall be left at residences.
- You have the right to vote. The right is proclaimed in the Constitution of Canada.
- When you register to vote, you act freely. You must consent to your inclusion into the Register. In Canada and in Alberta, you are not compelled to register or to vote. It's up to you.

There are new rules.

Some important changes are described in this advertisement. The questions and answers make sure you are informed about the changes.

Q. Something new?

A. In July, 1996, the Alberta Election Act was changed.

Q. What changed?

A. The law now provides for a Register of Electors from which the Lists are prepared and printed.

Q. What is the Register of Electors?

A. A database of qualified electors continuously updated from existing sources, shared by federal, provincial and municipal levels of government.

Q. Why a Register of Electors?

A. Collecting data by a door-to-door enumeration is outdated and expensive. It is difficult to find electors at home and many people do not want to open their doors to strangers. And it is very difficult to find enumerators.

Q. What are the savings expected?

A. A Register will save taxpayers money. Canada expects to save $130 million in the next 6 general elections. Alberta expects to save $15 million in the next decade and a half. These savings will increase if municipalities and school boards in Alberta use the Register for their elections.

Q. How are such savings possible?

A. Enumerations are the most expensive part of the electoral process. Moreover, they repeat themselves. For example, in one municipal jurisdiction in Alberta, between October 1992 and October 1993, four enumerations were completed.

1992 Municipal Election	1993 Provincial Election
1992 Referendum	1993 Federal Election

The cost estimate was $5.13 for every voter listed. This duplication is very expensive.

Q. How will the Register be kept up to date?

A. With the consent of the voter, it will be kept up to date using Driver's licenses, Vital Statistics, Citizenship and other available databases. Input from Elections Canada and Alberta Municipalities will also be used. Voluntary registration and mail-outs on a regular basis will complete the process.

Q. Does an elector have to be on the Register to vote?

A. No. An elector simply must have their name and address placed on the voter list during an election and at the polling station by taking an oath or affirmation and providing proof of identity.

Q. What information is collected at the door?

A. Enumerators will record each elector's given and family name and middle initial; civic and postal addresses; gender; date of birth; and telephone number, if the number is publicly listed. All information is collected on a voluntary basis.

Q. Is the information confidential?

A. All information is confidential and used for electoral purposes only. The gender and date of birth are for Elections Alberta's use to maintain the Register. The gender now appears on the Federal List of Electors. Names, addresses and telephone numbers will appear on the Lists of Electors used in the democratic process by Members of the Legislature, Registered Political Parties, Candidates and Elections Alberta.

Q. Why the telephone numbers?

A. Elections Alberta and the democratic process is best served when stakeholders can communicate with electors easily. Only unpublished numbers already available are requested. Unpublished numbers are not required and are not acceptable. Telephone numbers also assist Elections Alberta maintain the Register.

Q. What measures will Elections Alberta take to ensure the protection of personal and confidential information?

A. Voter information may only be used for electoral purposes. Any use of this information for any other purpose may result in fines of not more than $100,000, or to imprisonment for not more than one year, or both. The law shall be vigorously enforced. Electronic safeguards will be used to trace any person who misuses such information.

Q. What about the Privacy Act?

A. The Register requires your free participation. Your consent is necessary. The personal data you provide is given on a voluntary basis. Elections Alberta asks you for your consent so that we may build a Register of Electors which will result in savings to you, the taxpayer and elector. It is your vote, your choice and your tax dollar. Thus, with your consent, the principles of the Privacy Legislation are respected.

Q. What does the research show?

A. A public opinion survey in March, 1996 found 90% support for a Register of Electors in Canada. A further 75% in a separate survey supports the use of existing computerized sources to update the Register. In opinion polls, results indicate 70% of Canadians have no concern about names, addresses and dates of birth appearing in the Register. Respondents supported the idea of sharing the Register to eliminate duplication and reduce costs. An Environics survey indicates Canadians are not concerned about privacy issues regarding the Register of Electors containing their names, addresses and dates of birth.

Q. How do Albertans away from the province register?

A. Mail in Registration Forms are available. Telephone your Returning Officer or Elections Alberta to make arrangements for registration.

Your Right, your Choice. Register now.

- Remember, you have the right to vote or decline to vote. • You have the right to register or not register.
- You have a free choice. Now it is up to you. Help us build the Register.

Contact your Returning Officer for further information.

On November 1, 1996, the Daily Herald Tribune in Grande Prairie editorialized:

"WE SAY

Tele-enumerating may be nightmare

Privacy Boss fears abuse

Privacy Commissioner Bob Clark fears Alberta voters may face an eventual post-Halloween horror when provincial enumerators start calling door-to-door Friday.

He could be right.

Less than 24 hours after the last gaping ghoul, cavorting goblin or weird old witch come trick-or-treating, the process begins to build what's called a Register of Electors.

Basically, the register is a tally of voters from which to compile electors' lists that can be used for municipal, provincial or federal elections or referendums. The idea is to save millions of dollars by not requiring enumerators to count eligible voters every time an election is called.

It's strictly voluntary. Only those people who want to vote need provide the information. And even if they don't, it doesn't prevent them from casting a ballot down the road.

It's a little like a census, however. It's not just your name and address that's being asked for; there's also your age and sex and telephone number.

The latter request is what worries Clark, not because most telephone numbers are listed anyway, but because it's an open door for politicians - without even considering the potential for other abuses despite assurances everything is on the confidential up-and-up and there are hefty fines for misuse.

People don't have to give their telephone numbers. The enumerators must tell people that. And a highlighted portion of the voter registration form will repeat the same message.

Clark doesn't think that's good enough.

What will happen if telephone numbers are provided is that they will be made available for campaigning purposes to political parties, their candidates and even pollsters. Clark says unwanted vote-for-me and who-are-you-going-to-vote-for calls are bound to irritate voters.

The specter of a Halloween hangover is real since Albertans expect to go to the polls in the spring. Be prepared for a new telemarketing nightmare."

Similar articles, cartoons, and editorials followed. In the editorial pages of the Calgary Herald on November 2, 1996, an editorial comment appeared beside a very large cartoon with the following caption in very large letters:

“Tell ‘em No!

Government can’t be trusted to keep voters information private”

Similar comments appeared in The Edmonton Journal. There is little doubt that this publicity had a negative impact on the success of the enumeration and that many electors were persuaded not to participate in the enumeration as a result of them. The Chief Electoral Officer countered with the following letter to the editor which appeared in most newspapers in Alberta. The Edmonton Sun published a version of the letter as the Letter of the Day with the comment “We certainly do (agree with you).”

“Letter to the Editor

The Voters List and the Register of Voters shall not be sold to telemarketers or pollsters for business purposes or used by criminals to wound innocent victims. The Legislature has protected the information in the Election Law. The Lists must be used for election purposes only. Anyone who uses the Lists for other purposes is subject to a $100,000 penalty and the possibility of one year in jail upon conviction. A business which breaks the law in this way runs the risk of losing the good will of the public. Any member of the Legislature, or any politician who breaks this law, runs the risk of possible expulsion from the Legislature. Certainly the chances of any politician who broke this law succeeding in a future election is remote. These Lists are produced by computers which shall all have a computer identification. This identification will allow Elections Alberta to enforce the law rigorously.

Furthermore, the registered political parties of Alberta will follow standard principles and procedures which safeguard the Lists. Voters Lists have always been used for elections. Candidates and political parties use the Lists to communicate with voters while conducting their campaigns. I think most Albertans want to talk with candidates during elections. But in addition to this democratic purpose, the Lists assure the honesty and integrity of elections. Election administrators use the Lists to determine who votes, where they vote and for whom they are entitled to vote. This link between eligible electors and their residence and the candidates is our guarantee that the election is fair and honest and free from fraud. Elections Alberta checks and counts each vote just as carefully as a banker counts dollars.

You must remember that voting is a public act. Your vote is secret, but whenever you vote, your full name and address is recorded in a poll book to make sure only people entitled to vote do so. These poll books are subject to review by the courts.

The Lists given to candidates contain complete names, addresses and publicly listed telephone numbers obtained with the voters consent. The Lists given to politicians serve the democratic process. Elections in Alberta are completed in four weeks - a very short period of time. Since telephones were invented, numbers from published directories have been added to the Lists by candidates.

Today in Alberta, where the average electoral division has 30,000 voters, looking up telephone numbers is time consuming and costly. As political parties are funded by public donations which are eligible for tax credits, there are tax dollar implications for every voter. Only published numbers available in local telephone directories are requested: non published numbers are not accepted. Elections Alberta will use telephone numbers to keep the Register and Lists up to date. Your consent when changing telephone numbers when you move shall be required.

Dates of birth, gender and residency data are strictly confidential and shall be used only by Elections Alberta to maintain the Lists and the Register. This data is not given to political parties or candidates.

I do not think the List of Electors will result in criminals pursuing innocent victims. There is absolutely no evidence to show victims of crime have been located from data on a List of Electors. The suggestion of dire consequences is speculative and an exaggeration. So is the suggestion that no information in government hands is confidential. Think of the adoption records, juvenile offender files, tax and health records. Of course there have been improper revelations. But the persons responsible have paid the price.

There are two basic rights at work here. The democratic rights set out in section three of the Canadian Charter of Rights and the Right to Privacy. A balance between these two principles is necessary. Albertans have the right to expect that their votes are counted properly and that elections are free, fair, honest and without fraud. Additionally, Albertans have the right to expect that their tax dollars shall not be wasted.

If enumerations are eliminated there are huge savings for the elector and taxpayer. Elections Canada expects to save $130,000 million in the next six general elections and Alberta will save $15 million over the next fifteen years by avoiding duplication of Voters Lists.

I trust the good common sense of Albertans. News of the demise of privacy because of the inclusion of data in a Register of Electors has been grossly exaggerated. Huge tax savings are possible with the Register. Ineffective, costly multiple enumerations are avoided and the List may be shared by all three levels of government. The democratic process is served, and the democratic coin of the realm is preserved and protected. The Legislative Assembly of Alberta is responsible for the passage of this amendment to the Election Act as recommended by my Office. I think it is good law and trust Albertans will agree with me.

*Derm Whelan
Chief Electoral Officer of Alberta"*

The Privacy Commissioner also had some positive and helpful comments in a news release dated November 6, 1996:

"The Commissioner said that while it is preferable, from a privacy point of view to limit the collection of personal information, where a decision is made to collect personal information, this should be done with the knowledge and consent of the individuals involved. In Alberta, the Chief Electoral Officer is doing a good job of ensuring that individual consent is obtained before the telephone number is collected."

Winter Weather

The early onset of winter in November did not assist the residential visitation process. Very often enumerators waiting for warmer weather found themselves running out of time and concluding unfinished work was unavoidable. The common complaints from enumerators were that their pens were freezing and had to remain in mittens to render them warm enough to write and that electors sometimes did not ask them to step into their homes for the few minutes required to gather the information needed. The very cold weather negatively impacted the process. Temperatures throughout the province were very much below normal. Moreover, the number of available daylight hours diminished as the month went quickly by. The schema following makes this point in graphic detail.

Revision During the Enumeration

The date set for the Revision was generally November 30, 1996, although there were some exceptions and extensions. The addition of electors registering by mail nevertheless continued until December 31, 1996, when data entry began. Mail-in Registrations received in 1997 were held until the Revision Period during the expected spring Alberta General Election. Revision of the Lists and the Register shall in future require diligent work and time. In the past, Revision was not a demanding process. In the future, with a Register of Electors, it shall become one of the primary objectives of electoral administrators, as it is now in almost every democratic jurisdiction in the world.

Overview of Results

The following information has been highlighted for general interest purposes:

1. There were 1,648,473 names collected during the 1996 enumeration, in comparison to the 1,587,904 names collected during the previous enumeration in 1993; this represents a 3.81% increase.
2. The average number of electors enumerated in each electoral division is 19,861; there were six electoral divisions with more than 25% above the average number of electors and four electoral divisions with more than 25% below the average number of electors.
3. Additional information was collected to develop the permanent Register of Electors; in addition to names and addresses, enumerators collected dates of birth, genders, and publicly listed telephone numbers. Dates of birth were provided for 72.23% of electors enumerated; 79.55% gave middle names; and 58.43% telephone numbers. Stated another way, 462,283 electors, or 27.77%, did not provide dates of birth. Middle names were not provided by 334,899, or 20.45%, of electors enumerated. Telephone numbers were not provided by 690,774, or 41.57%, of electors enumerated. These figures are functions of the total electors enumerated, viz. 1,648,473.
4. Enumerators collected 162,817 addresses only for follow up during the Revision conducted after a General Election was called. These were addresses where enumerators did not receive responses or which appeared to be vacant. While electors move, residences usually do not. This data is one of the main roots of the elector record in the Register. Once names of qualified electors were added, the Register was expected to contain the estimated 1.8 million electors in Alberta. These were cross-checked against Mail-in Registration forms to avoid duplication.
5. All Lists were vetted, by electoral division, by Assessment Systems Corporation, which had developed software for Elections Alberta to remove duplications from the records before printing of the paper Lists and generation of electronic Lists.

6. The range of products available to Elections Alberta generated by the ECAPLE software (Elections Canada Automated Production of the List of Electors) at the data entry centre include the following for each electoral division:
- a. Data entry reports;
 - b. Polling division report before revision;
 - c. Polling division report after revision;
 - d. List of Electors by electoral division and subdivision;
 - e. Exceptions Report on incorrect postal codes;
 - f. Exceptions Report on persons less than 18 years of age;
 - g. Exceptions Report on missing dates of birth, genders, and telephone numbers;
 - h. Exceptions Report in statistical format on missing data;
 - i. Electors per street report;
 - j. New street verification report;
 - k. Alpha Register of Electors;
 - l. Enumerators report;
 - m. Boundaries descriptions;
 - n. Register diskettes;
 - o. List of Electors diskettes.
7. These products comprise the Register of Electors. The ten LANs (Local Area Networks), which had up to ten work stations, were loaned to Elections Alberta by Elections Canada, which also provided up to four experts familiar with the software and hardware at various times in December and January when the data was entered. Data entry staff - as many as 175 persons a day - were engaged for Elections Alberta by Olsten Staffing Services, and quality control was provided by Assessment Systems Corporation through as many as ten persons per day from their staff. Managers from Elections Alberta were on site at all times. Two shifts worked up to twelve hours a day, seven days a week, to meet the timeline, which was the completion and production of the List of Electors and Register by January 31, 1997. The Lists of Electors distributed to registered political parties and candidates were printed by Rileys Reproduction and Printing Ltd.

Security

The printed Lists had a security watermark throughout and electronically seeded data to preclude unauthorized reproduction of the Lists. Even on original copies this device caused a legibility problem. However, when photocopying the originals, unless adequate care was taken, the watermarks made the Lists most difficult to read. The watermark concept for security needs re-examination before the next Lists are printed.

The possible monetary sanction for use of the List of Electors for purposes not authorized by the Election Act is $100,000. The Lists may not be used for federal electoral purposes. Elections Canada provides federal Lists under the Canada Elections Act to those entitled to the use of the federal Lists. Use of the Alberta List of Electors for unauthorized purposes shall result in appropriate investigations with the possibility of charges being laid and upon conviction, severe penalties imposed.

Distribution of the List of Electors

Lists of Electors were provided to political parties and independent candidates in an electronic format as prescribed by ss. 16 and 57 of the Election Act. Each registered political party was able to request one hard copy of the List, along with one electronic version. The overall number of hard copy Lists formerly needed was substantially reduced, realizing both a fiscal and environmental saving. Returning Officers also had access to electronic Lists, allowing them to respond more effectively to electors' queries.

Financial Analysis

The joint venture with Elections Canada resulted in approximately $1.5 million in savings to Alberta taxpayers. Using one enumerator per subdivision reduced costs by another million dollars. Some of these savings were used to build the Register of Electors.

The precise details on an electoral division basis shall be provided with the financial insert to this report, which shall be available next month, and should be inserted in the envelope on the inside of the back cover.

TUESDAY, MARCH 11, 1997 GENERAL ELECTION

Mandate

The March 11, 1997, General Election began with several Orders in Council (OCs) that were approved on February 11, 1997. These included OC 76/97, a Proclamation proclaiming the Electoral Divisions Act, Statutes of Alberta 1996, c. E-4.06, in force and effect from February 11, 1997. This in effect meant that the General Election would be conducted on the electoral divisions established by that Act. These were the new boundaries recommended by the 1995/1996 Alberta Electoral Boundaries Commission in June 1996.

OC 77/97 appointed the required Returning Officers for the respective electoral divisions for the purpose of or in connection with elections, enumerations, and plebiscites under the Election Act. OC 78/97 was another Proclamation declaring the Twenty-third Legislative Assembly of Alberta to be dissolved and the Members thereof discharged from further meetings and attendance. Finally, OC 79/97 called for a General Election under s. 36 of the Election Act.

With the authority of OC 79/97 and pursuant to s. 37 of the Election Act, writs of election were issued by the Chief Electoral Officer on February 11, 1997, to each Returning Officer appointed for a particular electoral division throughout Alberta. The Returning Officers are listed on pages 73 and 74 of this Report.

Election Training

Election training seminars were held for all returning officers and their election clerks in January and February, 1997. Four two-day sessions were held in Edmonton. Beginning on January 20th to 21st and continuing on to the 22nd to 23rd and the 27th to 28th, the sessions in Edmonton concluded on the 29th to 30th of January. In Calgary three two-day sessions were held as follows: February 3rd to 4th, 5th to 6th, and 7th to 8th.

The agenda for the training sessions is set out below:

Day 1

- Returning Officer Manual Update
- Pre-Election Preparation
- Enumeration Debriefing
- Enumeration Products
- Three Training Films
- Election Overview
- The Role of the Returning Officer
- The Role of the Election Clerk

Day 1 (continued)

The Code of Conduct and Ethics
Inmate Voting
Revision and the Register of Electors
Writ to Nomination Day
Special Ballots
Nominations

Day 2

Nomination Day to Polling Day
Offences and Corrupt Practices
Finance
Election Flipchart Training
Polling Day Procedures
Poll Simulation and Role Play
Post-Polling Day Procedures

Training was provided using a newly revised Returning Officer Manual and Election Briefing Flipchart. It should be noted that the conclusion of training pre-dated the writ by only three days.

Deputy Returning Officers and Poll Clerks

Approximately 6,118 Supervisory Deputy Returning Officers and Deputy Returning Officers were appointed and received training from their respective Returning Officers prior to Polling Day. The Deputy Returning Officers generally appointed their own poll clerks. Returning Officers throughout the province trained these minor officials to carry out the duties connected with the election and in accordance with the Election Act, usually in 90-minute training sessions. Most of the persons hired had been involved in elections in Alberta earlier, either at the provincial, federal, or municipal levels.

Revision During the Election

Because the Register of Electors had been established during the General Enumeration in November, 1996, the revision to the List of Electors and to the Register during the electoral timeframe became a critical and time-consuming process. Ordinarily, revisions begin on the 7th day in the election calendar. In this case, revisions began on Monday, February 17, 1997. They continued to Day 19 in the election calendar, although extensions were generally granted to the Revision Process when requested. The Chief Electoral Officer's power to extend the Revision Process timeframe is set out in s.s. 4(2)(a) of the Election Act. Subsection 3 of s. 4 requires the Chief Electoral Officer to present a report on his conduct respecting enumerations and elections. In the broadest sense, it is thus necessary to report on the extensions given under s. 4 with respect to the timeframes for the doing of any of the necessary things under the Election Act.

The Revision Process, because Alberta now has a Register of Electors, is the most proactive and time-consuming component that must be addressed in the electoral timeframe. Many remarked upon the commitment and resources that needed to be focused on revision and specifically said that revision had not been earlier, in previous elections, a matter of great import. Some election officials, indeed, said that the Revision Process during the election seemed more important than the election itself. The point is well taken, however, the election is the important event. Nevertheless, the Register of Electors needs to be refreshed and updated at every opportunity, and a General Election shall be one of those opportunities.

By definition, the revision of the List of Electors and of the Register is the addition, deletion, change, or correction of any data with respect to an elector contained in the Register of Electors or on the List of Electors.

For the purpose of revising the List, Returning Officers were enabled to hire revising agents. Returning Officers were also permitted to hire assistants or enumerators as required to assist with the revision of the Register and the Lists as was necessary. The revising agents worked 44-hour weeks and were compensated and given mileage when required. Revising agents, their assistants, and enumerators took the Oath of Office prior to undertaking this work.

The procedure followed for the revision of the Register, and the Lists, were grouped by polling subdivision, and changes were sorted alphabetically and transcribed onto Statements of Change in a format that permitted these changes to be added to the List of Electors.

The methodology followed for the revision accounted for revisions that were initiated by electors. In these cases, persons who were missed or needed to be deleted or had their information corrected came forward on their volition to effect the changes and in response to advertising purchased by Elections Alberta.

The second group of revisions were the proactive revisions initiated by Returning Officers. This proactive review of information included an update on all Mail-in Registration applications received since the conclusion of the General Enumeration as well as a follow-up on all "Address Only" Records. Further, rejected Enumeration Records, Duplicate Elector Reports, and the range of Exceptions Reports earlier described were used to promote the revision of the data and to identify additions, deletions, or corrections that were needed.

Mail-in Registration Revisions

Mail-in Registration applications were returned to Returning Officers by Elections Alberta for revision onto the Register and the Lists. The necessary additions, corrections, or deletions to the Lists were made by the Returning Officers or revising agents from these documents during the Revision Period.

Address Only Revisions

Secondly, the "Address Only" records were systematically checked in the field under the supervision of the Returning Officers with the intent of adding to the List of Electors any qualified electors who had not been earlier registered or who had not completed Mail-in Registration applications that had been left during the enumeration. At headquarters, Elections Alberta culled out of the "Address Only" records, those who had registered by mail, so that only those addresses where no electors had come forward were returned to the Returning Officer for review during the Revision Period. The revising agents initiated a review of these addresses by a number of methods. Reverse telephone directories, both in paper and CD-ROM address format, or other telephone company products were used to determine names and telephone numbers of residents at these addresses. First attempts to contact residents were made by telephone, and when communication was established, electors were invited to register. When this failed, the revising agents actually visited residences to complete the Enumeration Record. Again, on visitation, similar to the process used during the General Enumeration, if no one was found at home, Mail-in Registration applications with the proper instructions for mailing or faxing them when completed to the Returning Officer were left at the residence.

Rejected Enumeration Records

With respect to rejected Enumeration Records, revising agents were again asked to take the necessary steps to contact the residences of electors and to make the necessary additions, corrections, or deletions to the Lists during the Revision Period. These records were basically incomplete records that had been rejected during data entry.

Elimination of Duplicates

Duplicate records were produced in a report format electronically and set out the names of all electors with the same name and address. In most cases, the revising agents found that these electors were enumerated and later also completed Mail-in Registration applications. It was necessary to contact the electors concerned to assure that names were not arbitrarily removed from the Lists. For example, a father and son with the same name and living at the same address might have different birth dates. In such cases, both names ought to remain on the List of Electors.

Exceptions Reports

Finally, additional staff were hired to work with the Exceptions Reports. These reports were forwarded to Returning Officers with the instructions to contact electors by telephone with the intent of completing their registration record. This project was carried out by telephone, as had been said, and with the highest regard for the elector's right to have correct and complete information in the Register of Electors.

All persons involved in collecting information during the Revision Period were advised that the Canada Elections Act permitted the List of Electors and Register to be shared with our federal counterpart. Instructions from Elections Alberta said that it was essential, while respecting the free choice of all electors, to impress upon them the urgent requirement we have for dates of birth, gender, and telephone numbers to make the Register concept work. It was also said that the data would help to achieve tax savings and that the use of the Register was necessary to make this possible. The date of birth is an essential number which precisely identifies the elector and makes possible the maintenance of the Register. The consent of the elector with respect to participation and the voluntary nature of the free choice of the elector was respected.

The Chief Electoral Officer advised Returning Officers that a script was available and ought to be used with respect to the Exceptions Reports where the data being requested included dates of birth, telephone numbers, and genders. The text of the script follows:

“I am calling on behalf of Elections Alberta.

We noticed your birth date and gender, which are important in maintaining an accurate Register of Electors, are missing. Were you asked to give this information during the enumeration?”

Response:

“Yes, I was asked. What do you need this information for?”	“No, I wasn’t asked.”
“The date of birth and gender are extremely important for maintaining the Register of Electors. This information is confidential and used for electoral purposes only.”	“May I have this information to add to the Register? May I add your telephone number to the List of Electors?”

Many electors were pleased to share this information to facilitate the development of the Register. A total of 136,518 records relating to date of birth, telephone number, gender and middle initial were supplied by electors throughout the province using this process.

The Revised List of Electors reflected these additions, deletions, and corrections to the List of Electors. Of course, the confidential information, which included dates of birth and genders, remained confidential and was not passed on to political parties or candidates. This data is used solely to update and maintain the Register of Electors.

The tables following illustrate in a tabular synopsis format the results of the Revision Process with respect to total numbers and also with respect to the Register and the Exceptions Report data. It should be noted that the total number of electors listed in the tables includes the Polling Day revisions, which will be dealt with in more detail below. The total number of electors after revision and Polling Day registration was 1,764,128 electors, a total very close to the Elections Alberta estimate of 1.8 million.

A total of 1,764,128 names were included on the List of Electors at the close of polls on Polling Day. The revised number of electors indicated above represents changes made to the Register after Polling Day.

Electoral Division Mapping

As has been said in the first section of this Report, the electoral maps for Alberta were developed in a joint venture with Elections Canada. Subsequently, Elections Alberta reviewed these maps and added detail. These maps, showing polling subdivisions, were published in local newspapers twice during the election period and appeared with a listing of voting place locations. In accordance with s.s. 51(2) and s. 64 of the Election Act, the first publication was during the first ten days that the election was called, and the second was in the seven days immediately preceding Polling Day. Approximately 150 daily, weekly and ethnic newspapers published this information throughout Alberta.

Returning officers in rural electoral divisions arranged their own advertising and oversaw the insertion of maps in local newspapers. Included with this particular advertising was advertising on the use of Special Ballots and also on the availability of level access at polling places.

Nominations

Nomination Day was February 25, 1997. Nomination Day is the last day upon which nominations may be received or the day on which nominations close. In actual fact, a candidate may be nominated at any time between Writ Day and Nomination Day. A total of 348 candidates filed nomination papers by 2:00 p.m. on the 25th of February, 1997, the day and time set for the close of nominations. The distribution of nominated candidates by political party affiliation was as follows:

Alberta Greens (AG)	7
Alberta Liberal (LIB)	83
Alberta New Democrats (NDP)	77
Communist Party-Alberta (CPA)	1
Natural Law Party of Alberta (NLP)	17
Progressive Conservative (PC)	83
Social Credit (SC)	70
The Forum Party (TFP)	4
Independent (IND)	6
TOTAL:	348

Two registered political parties - the Alliance Party of Alberta and the Reform Party of Alberta - did not field any candidates in the election.

One candidate withdrew his nomination papers one day after Nomination Day. Tom Lanier, Natural Law Party candidate in Calgary-Mountain View, withdrew his nomination reducing the number of nominated candidates contesting the election to 347. No candidate was elected by acclamation, and polls were conducted with respect to every electoral division in the province.

Special Ballots

The Special Ballot polls were conducted in each of the 83 electoral divisions in accordance with ss. 113 through to 116 of the Election Act. Special Ballots were available to electors who were on the List of Electors and who were unable to vote at the Advance Poll or on Polling Day because of: physical infirmity; absence from the electoral division; being an inmate, other than an inmate referred to in s. 41(b); being an elected official, candidate, official agent, or a scrutineer; or being a resident of a designated remote area. Qualified electors were able to utilize this Special Ballot method throughout the election period. A total of 9,066 Special Ballots were cast, including a number received from electors overseas.

Special efforts were made to accommodate, by Special Ballot, Armed Forces electors serving overseas, particularly in Bosnia. Although all ballots were not returned in time, by and large the majority were, and this effort was successful.

The Special Ballot process was enhanced by the introduction of Mail-in Registration applications. For this election, absentee electors were able to complete a Mail-in Registration application virtually anywhere in the world and return it to their Returning Officer in their own electoral division. This enabled them to be added to the List of Electors, request a Special Ballot, and receive and return it by mail so that they were able to exercise their franchise.

The Special Ballot process was further enhanced by an extension to the Revision Period. By authority of s.s. 4(2), the Chief Electoral Officer extended the time during which electors could be added to the List of Electors for the purpose of receiving Special Ballots. This measure allowed electors to be added to the List of Electors up to the close of polls on Polling Day. For particular details, readers are encouraged to refer to s.s. 4(2)(a) and s.s. 4(3) of the Election Act. The details by electoral division on the number of persons who voted by Special Ballot are contained in the Statistics portion of this report.

Advance Polls

Advance Polls were held in one or more locations in all of the 83 electoral divisions in Alberta on March 6th, 7th, and 8th, 1997; the Thursday, Friday, and Saturday preceding Polling Day. All Advance Polls had level access. A total of 34,284 ballots were cast at 160 polls by electors who were not able to cast their ballots in their appropriate electoral divisions on Polling Day.

Mobile Polls

Mobile Polls were held on March 11, 1997, at treatment centres and seniors' lodges with more than ten inpatients or residents. The Returning Officer in each electoral division set polling times in consultation with facility representatives. A total of 13,831 ballots were cast at 156 Mobile Polls, which were established in accordance with s. 117 of the Election Act.

Weather

The weather on Polling Day was very inclement. Inclement weather, particularly in a winter election, generally causes difficulties for electors and for election administrators. Incidents of Mobile Poll vehicles encountering difficulties traveling from place to place and even with minor accidents were reported to Elections Alberta. The schema below sets out an overview of the situation with respect to the weather throughout Alberta on Polling Day. There is no doubt that inclement weather discourages voters from taking the extra step required of them in order to exercise their franchise. Furthermore, political parties find it difficult to meet the transportation requests of voters when unfavourable weather prevails on Polling Day.

Advertising

Throughout the election period, Elections Alberta and Returning Officers utilized daily, weekly, and ethnic newspapers. Very large one-page ads were used on two occasions to publicize the location of polling stations and to display the electoral maps with respect to all electoral divisions. Advertisements were run on two occasions advertising the Voter Information Centre. Advertisements were also published concerning the Revision Process, Advance Polls and Special Ballot procedures. For the purpose, 10 dailies, 123 weeklies, and approximately 20 ethnic papers were used.

Liquor Prohibition Lifted

In May of 1996, the Election Act was amended to remove the prohibition against the sale of liquor on Polling Day. Although this applied in an earlier by-election, this was the first General Election in which the sale of liquor was not prohibited. There were no difficulties because of this change in the law, and the matter passed unnoticed generally, even by the media.

The Count of the Votes

On Polling Day, March 11, 1997, in all electoral divisions and for all electoral polling subdivisions, unofficial counts were completed by Deputy Returning Officers for their respective polling stations. These results were released to the media on election night. The unofficial count was concluded by 10:00 p.m.

The official results were announced by each of the Returning Officers on Friday, March 21, 1997, in accordance with the Proclamation setting out the date for the announcement of the returns. The Chief Electoral Officer, on receiving the Returning Officer's Certificate and Return, published the names of elected members in the April 15, 1997 Alberta Gazette. A list of all electoral members with political party affiliation, by electoral division, is presented on pages 54 and 55.

Judicial Recount

In the Judicial District of Edmonton at the Court of Queen's Bench the Liberal candidate for the electoral division of St. Albert, Leonard Bracko, applied for a Judicial Recount of votes cast for the provincial constituency of St. Albert. The reasons for the decision, which denied the recount, were given in writing by the Honourable Justice Veit on April 4, 1997, the same day the matter came on for hearing. Copies of the decision are available from the Court of Queen's Bench or from the Office of the Chief Electoral Officer. Part of the decision is quoted below to explain the rejection of the application for a recount:

"Summary

Bracko, a candidate for the Alberta Liberal Party in the March 11, 1997 provincial election, asks for a judicial recount of the votes cast during that election in the provincial constituency of St. Albert.

The informal ballot count held immediately after the close of the polls indicated that, out of some 15,000 votes cast, the Progressive Conservative Candidate - Mary O'Neill - had obtained the largest number of votes, and had obtained 11 more votes than Mr. Bracko. On the official vote count, held March 14 and 15, 1997, the Returning Officer declared that Ms. O'Neill had obtained 16 more votes than Mr. Bracko.

Mr. Bracko attaches no affidavit evidence to his request; however, he advances the following arguments:

- he made some objections to the decision of the returning officer and he would like the court to rule on those objections;
- there was a large number of votes cast, and the difference in number of votes cast for the two leading candidates is so small that a judicial recount should be ordered;
- there have already been changes in the decision about the validity of the votes cast - the number of winning votes going from 11 to 16 - so there may yet be even more changes;
- he would like to have a final check.

Mr. Bracko acknowledges that, during the official count:

- he officially objected to only 2 of the Returning Officer's decisions about ballots;
- 70 ballot boxes were counted. One of the objections he raised was made in relation to a ballot found in Box 1 or Box 2 and that the second objection related to a ballot found in Box 67;
- before each box was disposed of, all candidates were asked if they had any objections to the Returning Officer's decision on the ballots and Mr. Bracko made no objection other than the 2 objections which have been noted.

Mr. Bracko explains his failure to object to the Returning Officer's decision in this way:

- there were no rules announced before the counting started so he had a hard time making a decision about whether the ballots were valid and in his favour;
- the official count went very quickly (although he concedes that it took a total of 2 days to complete the official count); and,
- he did complain about some 12 ballots. The Returning Officer did not agree [with] his complaints; he did not register any objection to the Returning Officer's eventual decision, but he thought that there would be a later opportunity to have a decision made on his complaints.

Mr. Bracko filed his request for a judicial recount on March 27, 1997; the request asked for a hearing on April 2, 1997.

The Spring Sitting of the Alberta Legislature will open on Monday, April 14, 1997.

The respondents raise a preliminary issue: they say that Mr. Bracko's motion is out of time. They argue that the Legislature has, for obvious policy reasons, established very tight time lines for judicial recounts. In this case, they say that the Election Act required Mr. Bracko to appear before a judge by April 2, 1997, at the latest. They assert that, because Mr. Bracko missed this dead-line, this court has not jurisdiction to hear his request.

Alternatively, the respondents argue that if the court does have jurisdiction, it should not authorize a judicial recount. They contend that Mr. Bracko must establish his entitlement to the recount; he does not obtain a judicial recount merely because he asks for one. However, they say that he has not presented any evidence in favour of a recount. On the contrary, they argue that such facts as are known on this motion establish that there is no good reason to hold a judicial recount because, under such a recount, Mr. Bracko would still lose the election.

The request for a judicial recount is denied.

Mr. Bracko has missed the deadline for making such an application; the court no longer has any jurisdiction to hear such an application. The Legislature of Alberta has established very short time-lines for asking for judicial recounts. Although it is not for the court to assess the Legislature's policy in establishing such short lines, it is obvious that weighty public policy arguments support the urgency of finalizing the vote count in a provincial election. In any event, however, where the Legislature had clearly imposed a deadline, the court must respect the Legislature's decision.

Even if Mr. Bracko had not missed the deadline, his application would still not be granted because he has not established that there is a reasonable purpose to such a recount. On the contrary, on Mr. Bracko's own assessment, there are only a maximum total of 14 votes that might be decided in his favour; he would still lose the election. Indeed, since Mr. Bracko himself, at the time of the official count of the ballots only registered 2 objections to the Returning Officer's determination about the ballots, it is highly unlikely that a judicial recount would do more than possibly increase Mr. Bracko's total number of votes by 2; he would still lose the election.

Mr. Bracko complains about some election procedures; those complaints can perhaps be advanced under the controverted elections procedures set out in Part 7 of the Act, but they certainly cannot be heard on this motion."

Inspection of Election Documents

Following the gazetting of the returns from the General Election, election documents were available for inspection for a period of thirty days. Five candidates and one official agent inspected these documents pursuant to the Election Act at s. 149. Usually the reason for these inspections is related to a consideration of a Petition for a Controverted Election. However, these inspections having been completed at the end of the time permitted for the filing of Petitions for Controverted Elections, the courts had not received any such petitions.

Candidates' Deposits

The deposits of 207 candidates were forfeited. The forfeited amount of $41,400 was paid through the Chief Electoral Officer to the Provincial Treasurer for deposit to the General Revenue Fund. All candidates who did not poll at least one-half of the number of votes the winner of the election in a particular electoral division polled, were required to forfeit their election deposit.

General Comments

Among the interesting facts emerging from the 1997 General Election was the election of some Members by very small margins. The Member for Edmonton-Castle Downs was elected by 83 votes. The Member for Edmonton-Strathcona was elected by a margin of 58 votes. The Member for St. Albert was elected by a margin of 16 votes.

Turnout for the election varied greatly in the various electoral divisions: Peace River had the smallest voter turnout at 37.9%, while 67% of electors in Edmonton-Gold Bar turned out to vote. It is interesting to note that the voter turnout exceeded the provincial average of 53.75% in two of the three closely contested electoral divisions mentioned above: 56.3% in Edmonton-Strathcona and 61.0% in St. Albert.

The Inmate Voting Question

The inmate voting question became a focal issue during the electoral period and required detailed, precise, logistical planning at Elections Alberta in order to accommodate a possible positive decision in respect to the two actions that had been commenced by inmates. The cases were Robinson v. the Chief Electoral Officer et al and Byatt v. Dykema et al, which jointly challenged the constitutionality of the prohibition against sentenced prisoners voting in Alberta as well as their exclusion from the Lists of Electors.

Currently, s.s. 27(3) prohibits enumerators from visiting correctional institutions to enumerate inmates, and s. 41 of the Election Act disqualifies inmates who are serving sentences or terms of imprisonment from voting in Alberta provincial elections. On the contrary, prisoners in remand centres may vote as may convicted persons who are serving their sentences outside the correctional institution or while on parole.

The Office of the Chief Electoral Officer maintained a strictly neutral position in these actions and was concerned only with administering the Election Act according to law. But the concern arose that if the constitutional challenges were successful, certain logistical difficulties would be encountered given the short timeframe in which to develop and implement the procedure required to allow inmates to be enumerated and to vote.

It should be noted that litigation on behalf of inmates had been successful in other jurisdictions whose legislation contained similar provisions. The most publicized of these was the judgment of the Supreme Court of Canada in the Sauvé Case, which gave inmates the right to vote in federal elections. Subsequently, during the federal election on June 2, 1997, the decision in the Sauvé case continued to have force, all efforts to have the case struck down having failed.

The cases were heard jointly in the Alberta Court of Queen's Bench by the Honourable Justice McKenzie and, on February 27, 1997, a favourable judgment was issued on behalf of the inmates. It was ordered that:

1. Section 41(d) of the Election Act contravened s. 3 of the Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms and had no force and effect, and
2. The following two provisions of the Election Act had no force and effect, pursuant to s. 52(1) of the Constitution Act:
 - 41(d) in its entirety, and
 - 113(1)(c), the phrase "other than an inmate referred to in s. 41(d)".

However, that Order was stayed with the Alberta Court of Appeal by the Honourable Justice O'Leary on February 28, 1997. His decision directed the Office of the Chief Electoral Officer to conduct the election with both sections mentioned above in force. Prisoners were not enumerated and did not vote in the 1997 Alberta General Election.

The case is now before the Alberta Court of Appeal, which will hear the appeal on its merits at a time yet to be determined.

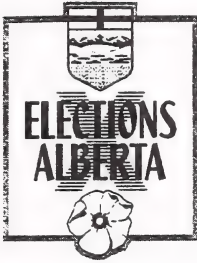

While these arguments were ongoing before the Alberta Courts, Elections Alberta had put in place a network of liaison officers for all correctional institutions in Alberta. The federal institution liaison officers marshaled for the purpose of possibly assisting with the conduct of an inmate vote included officials at Bowden Institution, Drumheller Institution, Edmonton Institution, Edmonton Institution for Women, Grande Cache Institution, and the Hobbema Healing Centre.

The following provincial institutions were also a part of the liaison structure: Bow River Correctional Centre, Calgary Correctional Centre, Calgary Remand Centre, Edmonton Remand Centre, Fort Saskatchewan Correctional Centre, Kainai Correctional Centre, Lethbridge Correctional Centre, Medicine Hat Remand Centre, Peace River Correctional Centre, Red Deer Remand Centre, Calgary Young Offenders Centre, Edmonton Young Offenders Centre, Grande Prairie Young Offenders Centre, and Lethbridge Young Offenders Centre. With respect to all of these institutions and centres, data was developed with respect to the capacity of the institution, average daily populations, and a profile on whether inmates in particular institutions were sentenced or remanded. With this data in hand and following a population count of the various institutions and centres, there were approximately 4,742 inmates in the population entitled to apply to vote if the courts granted inmates the right to vote as a result of the extant actions before these courts.

The next part of the process was to link Returning Officers to institutions and centres for the purpose of employing the Special Ballot, which was the mechanism of choice for the conduct of the inmate vote if it was ordered by the court.

Elections Alberta then circulated an Inmate Questionnaire to all the institutions and centres in the province of Alberta. The full text of the Inmate Questionnaire follows.

By the time the courts had negatively decided this matter, Elections Alberta had assembled and collated responses to all the Inmate Questionnaires circulated and was in a position to go forward with an inmate vote if it had been ordered.

INMATE QUESTIONNAIRE

All information gathered from this Questionnaire may only be used for the administration of elections and for the democratic purposes associated with election campaigns.

Background

The Election Act prohibits inmates from voting in provincial elections. This is currently being challenged in court. If the court challenge is successful, Elections Alberta needs to be in a position to allow inmates to vote.

This would require Elections Alberta to determine three things:

- (1) whether a particular inmate is eligible to vote
- (2) the inmate's appropriate Electoral Division
- (3) whether the inmate requests a Special Ballot.

This is the purpose of this Questionnaire.

Partisan Political Broadcasting

Partisan political broadcasting was prohibited on Polling Day and the day immediately preceding Polling Day by s. 129 of the Election Act. This "black-out period" precludes broadcasting on behalf of a particular candidate or a particular party for this time period.

Although this legislation remained in effect during the election, it was decided by the Minister of Justice and Attorney General that charges would not be laid for violations of that section of the Election Act since successful prosecution would not have been possible. That decision was made because in June 1996, the Alberta Court of Appeal struck down a very similar provision in the Canada Elections Act for violating the freedom of expression and association rights guaranteed by the Charter of Rights and Freedoms.

The Office of the Chief Electoral Officer immediately circulated a press release prepared for the purpose by the Minister of Justice containing this information to all political parties, the candidates, and the media. Subsequent to this and during the Spring Session of the current Legislature, the prohibition against partisan political broadcasting that was contained in the Election Act was repealed.

Candidates Campaign Period Financial Statements

These financial statements must be filed by all candidates by July 11, 1997. Details of expenses incurred by each candidate will be published in a newspaper circulated in the electoral division of that candidate. Political parties must file Political Party Campaign Period Financial Statements as required by September 11, 1997. Copies of all financial statements are placed in the Public Files maintained by the Office of the Chief Electoral Officer and are available for examination during normal working hours.

In addition, highlights of the 1997 financial statements related to the campaign will appear on the Home Page of the Office of the Chief Electoral Officer (www.assembly.ab.ca/ELECTORA/main.htm). It is intended to expand on the mandate for public disclosure set out in s. 10 of the Election Finances and Contributions Disclosure Act by sharing this information via the Internet, thus making it more accessible to interested stakeholders.

The Telephone Information Centre

A Telephone Information Centre was established at the Office of the Chief Electoral Officer to assist electors during the General Election. Information Centre staff were available throughout the election and responded to a total of 14,268 telephone inquiries. To enhance client service, the Information Centre staff were available throughout extended hours and weekends. The excellent cooperation received from the media in publicizing this toll-free service to electors was very much appreciated.

The Information Centre answered questions about

1. Eligibility to vote.
2. How to contact the Returning Officer.
3. How to get names on the List of Electors.
4. What identification was needed to swear-in at the polls.
5. Special Ballots.
6. Advance Polls.
7. How to vote when unable to visit a polling station.
8. Time off for voting.
9. Hours for polling.
10. Location of polling stations.

Indeed, the Elections Alberta Information Centre assisted electors throughout the province of Alberta with these and other questions. The text of paid advertising concerning the Centre appears below.

Do you have all the information you need to cast your vote?

- What is a special ballot?
- I'm going to be absent on Election Day, how do I vote?
- If I'm unable to get to the polling station, how do I vote?
- May I vote at an advance poll?
- Am I entitled to time off from work to vote?
- When are the polling stations open?
